ABSTRACT

Financial software is a sort of software that is specifically developed to automate, assist, and business financial data. A set of financial transactions, records, and processes are handled, as well as their storage, analysis, management, and processing. The development of web applications has many advantages, including affordability, scalability, flexibility, and accessibility.

Web apps are very user-friendly because they are accessible from any internet-connected device, are readily available, and are simple to use. Web apps are also simple to scale, update, and maintain, enabling businesses to adapt to shifting consumer demands and market trends.

A web application is made up of two basic parts: the front-end and the back-end. The frontend component is in charge of user interaction and interface this project used Bootstrap is the most widely used free and open-source framework for quickly creating a responsive layout in web pages. whereas the backend component is in charge of server-side functionality, database management, and server configuration.

The goal of the project is to develop a web-based application for monitoring cash flow using CRUD method. From the company: Revenue and Expenses. Using this system will improve the financial process effectiveness and efficiency for entering date information, names, and unique codes in order to reduce input errors brought on by human error.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This Final Project would not have been realized without the blessings and grace of God, who has provided safety and health for the author. The author wishes to express his gratitude to all of the supporters:

1. I would like to acknowledge and give my warmest thanks to my supervisor Mr. Ronny Juwono who made this work possible. His guidance and advice carried me through all the stages of writing my project.
2. I would also like to give special thanks to my family as a whole for their continuous support and understanding when undertaking my research and writing my project. Your prayer for me was what sustained me this far.
3. I would like to express my appreciation to all of President University's lecturers for giving me a wealth of knowledge about information systems that has been very helpful.
4. I want to thank my friends, especially the class of 2020, for their invaluable advice and knowledge, which supported me throughout the project's completion at various points.
